

Front End Communicates with the components that have the relevant info prepared by the back end

Back End sends queries to database. Database returns them

